

WORKSHOP ON “PROPOSALS FOR SCIENCE, TECHNOLOGY AND INNOVATION IN MEXICO CITY. THE EXPERIENCE OF THE CITY OF BEIJING” (21.4.2014)

Confirmed participation of: Mexico City Government officials (SECITI, Economic Development and Calidad de Vida), several municipalities/Delegaciones of Mexico City (Azcapotzalco and Tlalpan, among others), business (Mexican Business Council on Foreign Trade, Investment and Technology (COMCE) and China Chamber of Commerce and Technology in Mexico), Mexico’s Senate (Commission of Asia-Pacific Foreign Relations), academics (BA, MA and PhD students and Professors of different departments and specialization fields of UNAM, the Scientific and Technological Consulting Forum, National Polytechnical Institute (IPN), El Colegio de México, National Council on Science and Technology, among others), as well as the Foreign Ministry and the National Bank for Foreign Trade. Several former Ambassadors, consultants and students and specialists in Mexico on China are also attending. Several students and former scholars of Cechimex are participating.

Brief bios of invited guests

Sha Chen. Associate Professor and Vice dean of Environmental Science, Beijing University of Technology (BJUT). Ph.D. in Environmental Science (Peking University), Master and Bachelor in Beijing University of Science and Technology (Analytic Chemistry) and Chemistry (Sichuan University). Research interests: waste recycling management, life cycle & environmental impact assessment and environmental chemistry (<http://www.bjut.edu.cn/college/xunhuan/en/faculties/shachen.html>).

Mingjie Ma. Vice-Director General, Research Fellow of the Department of Techno-Economic Research of the Development Research Center of the State Council. The Department researches on major policies for the national long term developments of science and technology, technology innovation, technological advancement and technological equipments (www.chinadily.com.cn/m/drc/technoeconomy.html).

Shaofeng Yang. Senior Program Officer for Sci-Tech Innovations of the Beijing Municipal Commission of Science & Technology. The BMSTC is a constituent part of Beijing Municipal Government, mainly responsible for formulating local Sci-tech development programs, building the capital-wide innovation architecture by means of policies and budgetary plans, and improving Beijing’s economic competitiveness (<http://www.bjkw.gov.cn>).